In Memory of Colin O'Neill

For Colin

Slate Ridge Farm: A Eulogy

I dreamt in the boldness of reality.
That day I dreamt imagination had called me to dance around in hazy bliss to mourn-- My mind was stoned from tears and laughter. Winter broke for awhile so friends could live outside and watch time go up and down. We saw the fight between Sun and Moon in divided evening, when courageous day refused to leave at the slinking request of the night.
This decided who would rule the sky.
We set out to silently celebrate Nature with purity of heart and soul.
Purity tainted by death-- by a friend's heart that did love her, unjustly taken, kicking until his young heart despaired.
How is it understood? That we came about this place to mourn and bawl the dead.
To feel the simple beauty of a pond, for the first time, the tips of the trees bordering the revolutionary colors that battled the dominance of blue sky.
Details happen joyously, and quickly they disappear. We searched through the air for fear-- of something, someone rolling destiny and fate like dice attempting to control my mind that began to hate. So God is my Mother or Father or the frozen pond that we skated on. Death forces the hands of slow clock until the fan-like motion blows fantasy. I have witnessed a crime:
The ultimate, cunning, thief who stole life and time from those who go on living.
I know things need death like a dark ointment for a wound leaving a body crippled but there was no scratch on his body.
Friends took it upon themselves to grieve and soak the day in anger and sadness.
Mendings-- In God's phantom will is my pain
I will not grieve to satisfy your power.
The need to connect this loss is far more great than human's will to appease your being.
No God can revoke deeds done and faith does not instill peace gone.
And out there on the ice I thought I heard a voice whisper, "Child." I did not respond.
I care not to cordially converse with this unproven betrayer of life who's ill stare seemingly dictates,
"Tomorrow never comes, the present is always past. The past is always loss.
And each moment that now passes is bound each to each by insane absurdity."

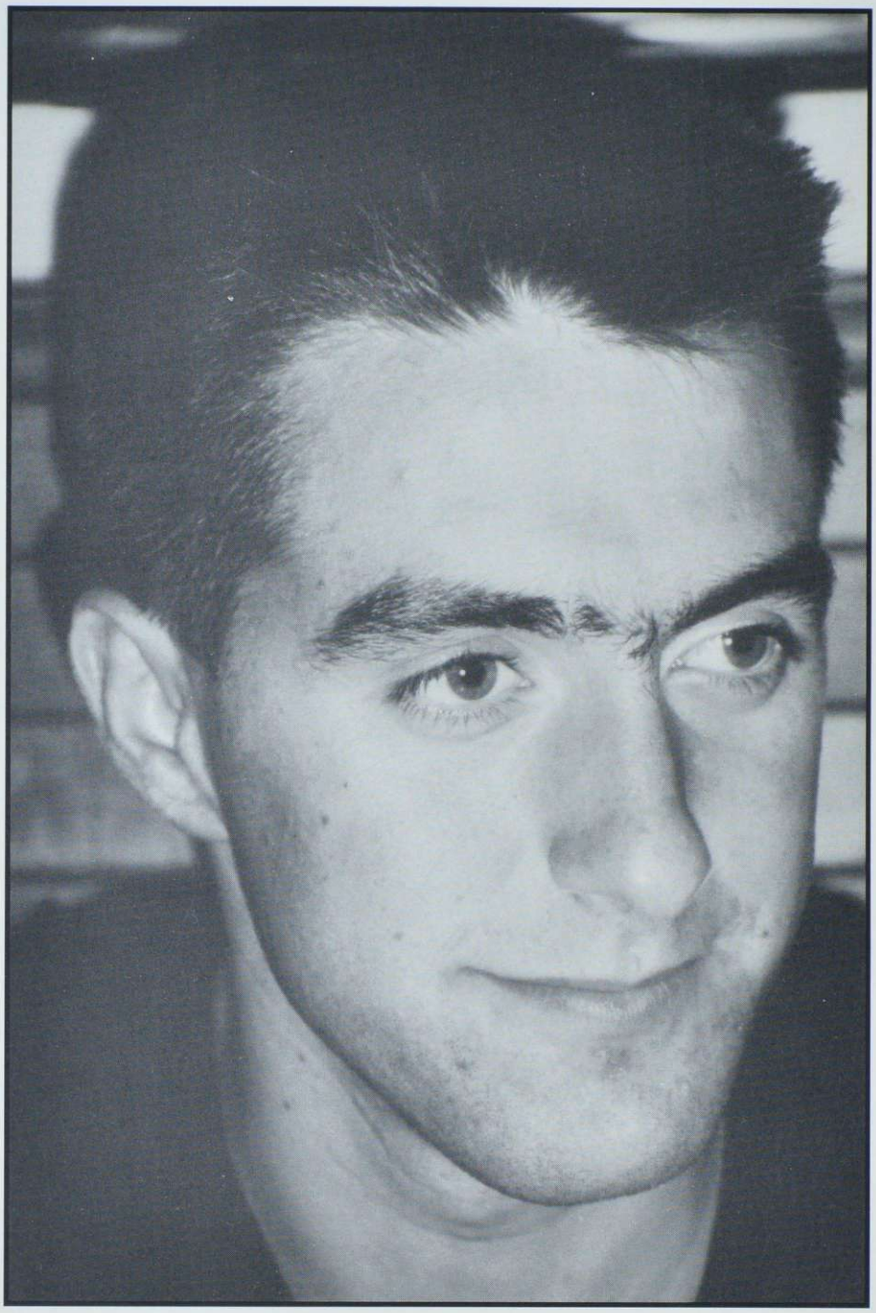
Jason Tandon

In Memory of Matteo Baumgarten



FELICITA

27/6/95

Felicità raggiunta, si cammina per te su fil di lana.
Agli occhi sei barlume che vacilla, al piede, teso ghiaccio che s'incrina;
e dunque non ti tocchi chi piu t'ama.

Se guingi sulle anime invase di tristezza e le schiari, il tuo mattino è dolce e turbatore come i nidi delle cimase.
Ma nulla paga il pianto del bambino
A cui fugge il pallone tra le case.

-Matteo

Matteo taught me how to give a voice to my feelings and I realize today that life is too short to remain silent. His voice is one I cannot forget--one that keeps on speaking....

-Vanessa

"Siddartha me l'ha detto
che conta solo l'amore, che tutto quello che ti serve può stare dentro al cuore..." (Jovanotti)
Matteo, resterai sempre nel mio cuore.

-Annamaria

14 giugno

Quando il cielo blu la picna luna e l'imponenza della montagna
a Sud
da sfondo inconscio alla coesione repentinamente rivissuta dei momenti mai troppo rimpianti vita, esistenza, universo, realtà fuor dei miei materiali confini dentro il più profondo dello spirito mio

-Matteo

Autumn

O sacred season of Autumn, be my teacher, for I wish to learn the virtue of contentment.
As I gaze upon your full-colored beauty,
I sense all about you an at-homeness with your amber riches.

You are the season of retirement, of full barns and harvested fields.
The cycle of growth has ceased, and the busy work of giving life is now completed.
I sense in you no regrets:
you've lived a full life.

I live in a society that is ever restless, always eager for more mountains to climb, seeking happiness through more and more possessions.
As a child of my culture,
I am seldom truly at peace with what I have.
Teach me to take stock of what I have given and received;
may I know that it's enough, that my striving can cease in the Abundance of God's grace.
May I know the contentment that allows the totality of my energies to come to full flower.
May I know that like you I am rich beyond measure.

As you, O Autumn, take pleasure in your great bounty, let me also take delight in the abundance of the simple things in life which are the true source of joy.
With the golden glow of peaceful contentment may I truly appreciate this Autumn day.

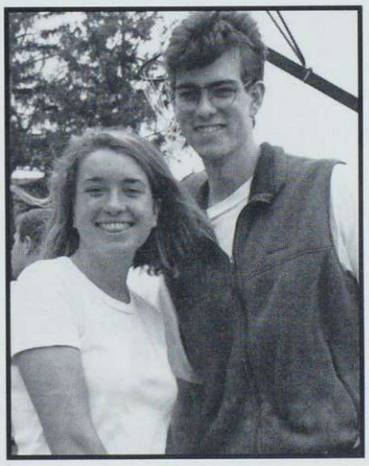
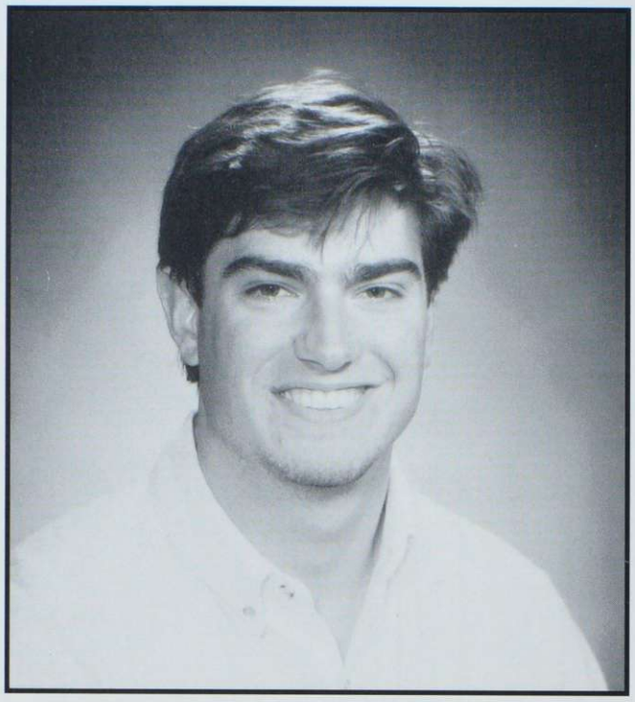
"Every so often you meet people who are going to be a part of your life forever. In October I met 17 of them. I love you guys."

--Ed at the Dog Team Tavern, January 1994





In Memory of Colin
You will never be far from our thoughts

But then they danced down the streets like dinglebodies, I shambled after as I've been doing all of my life after people who interest me, because the only people for me are the mad ones, the ones who are mad to live, mad to talk, mad to be saved, desirous of everything at the same time, the ones who never yawn or say a common-place thing, but burn, burn like fabulous yellow roman candles exploding like spiders across the stars and in the middle you see the blue centerlight pop and everybody goes "Awww!"

Then Jesus came to them and said, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Therefore go and make disciples out of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of age." Matthew 28:18-20 (NIV)

In Memory of Debby Edelstein

of the Class of 1996

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends;
to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others;
to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived.
This is to have succeeded.

-Ralph Waldo Emerson

DUKE BARISONEK

DEDICATION · TO · THE · SOUL

A Reminder to Duke's Family and Friends

When, in the coming days and months and years, you get the notion That you really have to see
The scrawny punk-rock kid who lived life in glorious motion, Rest assured-- you need not travel further than the nearest ocean.

When you get there take off your shoes, your socks, your shirt, your pants
Take off all the trappings of the modern world
Which some Midd Kidds might call advanced...
Swim or paddle out past thebreak of your choice,
Roll onto your back and turn to listen to your inner voice,
You know the one that's been in your head since as long as it can remember
The one that swore everything would change
When it got drunk last December

Notice that voice and the things it's been so consumed with Worthless, petty stuff, like papers and finals and corporate jobs and shit, Then look around and notice that all you can hear and see and feel
The rolling waves, the setting sun and pastel clouds,
The great wide open universe that surrounds,
The one constant through all our smiles and all our tears
All our ups and all our downs.
Take in a deep breath with this force that abounds
Pay close attention to the crashing surf and seagull sounds,
And the more you hear this the more you'll forget About the job you don't like and the carreer you're supposed to get...

As you float gently rocked by the spinning earth and its rolling waves,
REJOICE - Duke's beloved ones,
For today is the day and your souls have been saved,
All lonliness is gone, all bitterness long surrendered,
You're in the arms of the universe now, all is magic and all is tender.

Out here you are no longer by yourself
There is an angel with you, and this angel's name is Duke.
Down on earth, He touched you and brought you back to the innocent freedom of your youth

Now, Full of love and harmless, with open arms, a smile wide and a light heart
Duke is with you and you are in His heaven,

In the warm, clean water your head softly bobs,
While the sun settles down in a golden yellow throb
The waves roll in, clean and steep
A tribe of dolphins dives way down deep
Only to return springing into the air,
Playing innocent and free, without worry or care

In these moments you will find Duke
And in many ways it's a challenge to us all,
To forget about growing up,
And think instead about growing small,
Returning to the ocean, out of which all life once came Returning to innocence and playing love, in his spirit, in his name

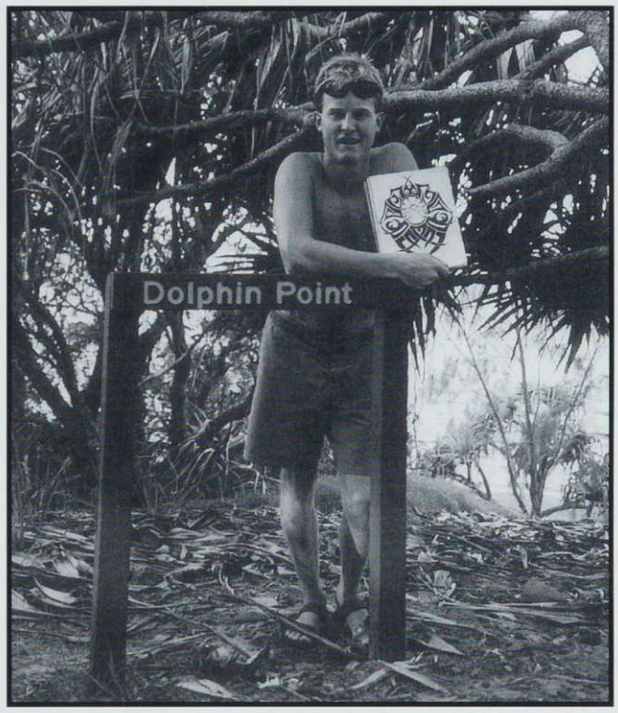
In this heaven is where I remember Duke
How could I ever forget him pulling me up from my chair

In this heaven is where we can still find Duke,
As our love radiates outward, He will surely hear our prayer...

-Jim Bruce '96
Mead Chapel, May 15, 1996

Boarder. Artist. Rider of life. Whatever Duke touched he moved with passion, grace and playful deviance. You have inspired us all, Duke, and you will never be forgotten. You are loved and you are missed. Thanks for everything. Later, and save some for me. -Us



Allo freak! How's life? I'm sure it's no surprise, but mine has been as good as it could be. I've been in Cape Byron for the past 2 weeks and my time here has been absolutely unreal. I wake up every morning pretty early and ride my bike to whichever beach is going off more and for the rest of the beautiful sunny day I surf there on and off, draw there on and off or just listen to my walkman and gaze in complete awe at the natural splendor and beauty all around me. It's kind of weird that Christmas is approaching with my true friends and family nowhere to be found. As I sit here on Tallow Beach in Cape Byron it's pleasantly difficult to conjure up the idea of Christmas, yet what does come to mind are a bunch of good memories which keep me going. Merry X-mas. -Mad Dolphin Boy. postcard from Australia, 1995

I used to shout across the room to you and you'd come dancin' like a fool. Shuffle step you Funky Mother. Come to me all warm as covers. Rest with me my lovely brother for you see there is no other. Memory so sad and sweet. I'll see you soon save me a seat. Well I'm cryin' now my lovely man. Yes I'm cryin' now and no one can fill the hole you left my man. I'll see you later my lovely man if I can. Just in case you never knew I miss you slim and love you too. See my heart it's black and blue...when I die I will find you. The Red Hot Chili Peppers "My Lovely Man"

 Time present and time past are both perhaps present in time future, and time future contai n time past. If all time is eternally present all time is unredeemable. What might have been is an abstraction remaining a perpetual possibility only in a world of speculation.

What might have been and what has been point to one end, which is always present.

 Footfalls echo in the memory down the passage we did not take towards the door we never opened into the rose-garden. My words echo thus, in your mind. -T.S. Eliot BURNT NORTON

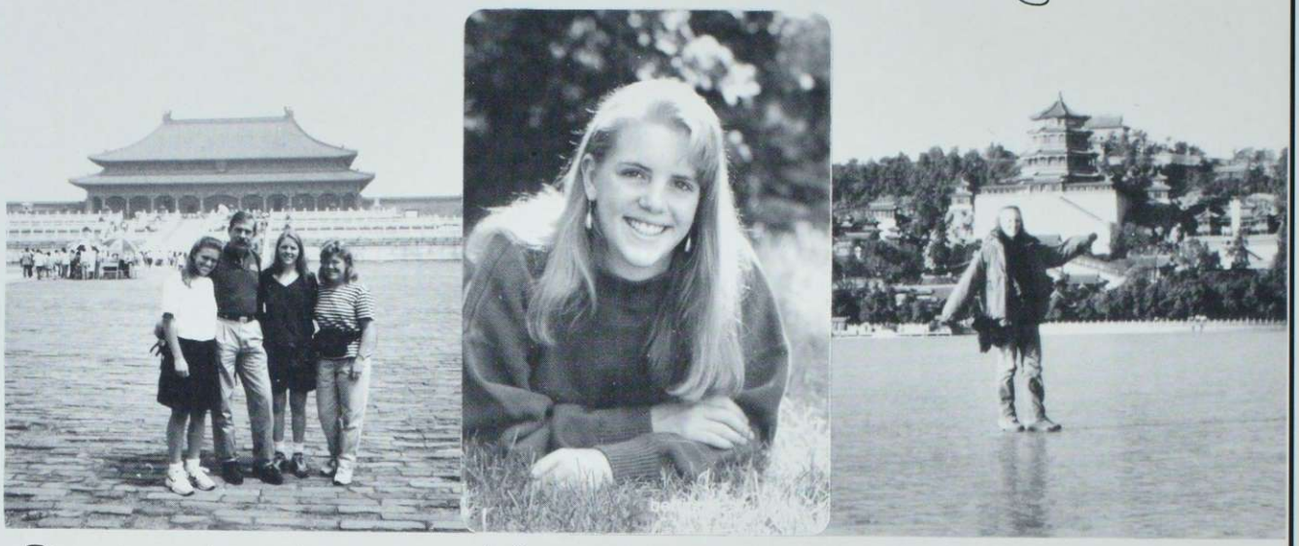
Go placidly amid the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly, and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love - for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is as perennial as the grass. Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world.

From the works of Max Ehrmann

Best Wishes & Congratulations to Kelsey & the Class of 1996!
We Love You — Mom, Dad & Kimberly



Success is a journey with many adventures, not a destination...

"Enthusiasm is one of the most powerful engines of success.
When you do a thing, do it with all your might. Put your whole soul into it.
Stamp it with your personality. Be active, be energetic, be enthusiastic and faithful; and you will accomplish your objective. Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm."

- Ralph Waldo Emerson

To Nicole,

As you continue down life's highway, may the Ideals, Hopes and Dreams you have in your heart be realized one by one.

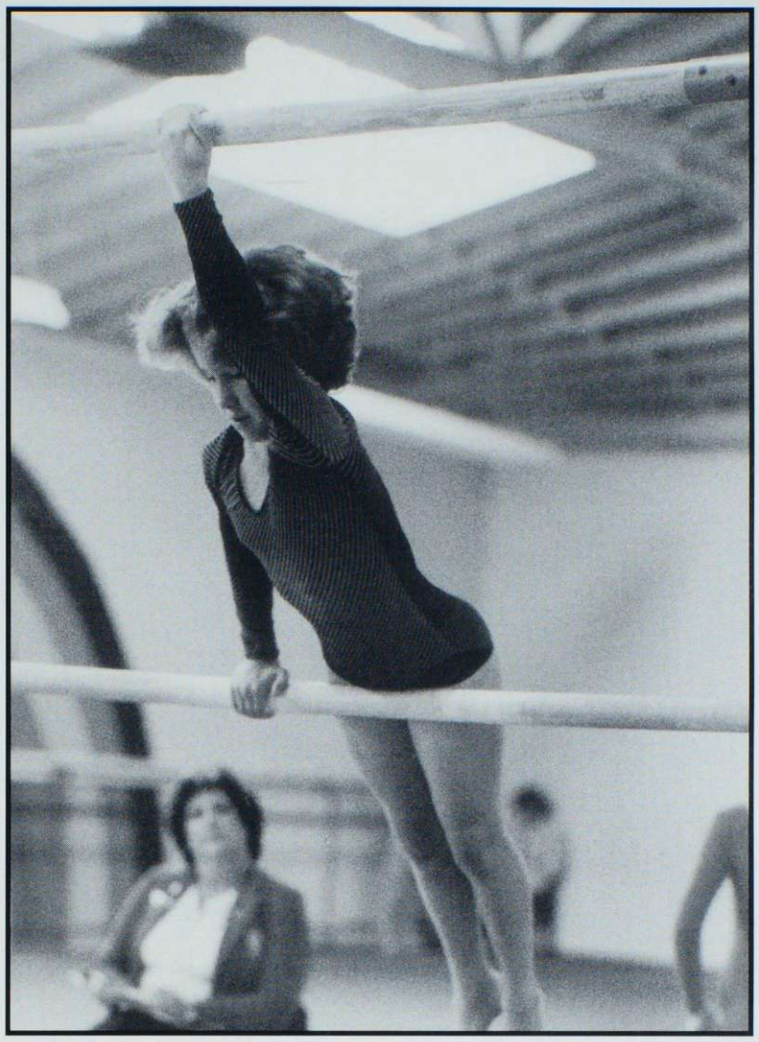
Be all that you want to be, do all that you want to do and with your generous, loving and giving spirit; the World will surely be changed for the better.

With all our love,
Mom and Dad

Jina,

We wish you good luck for the future. We are very proud of you.

Love,
Debby and Dad



Congratulations!
We love you, Meredith.

Only where love and need are one
And the work is play for moral stakes,
Is the deed ever really done
For Heaven and the future's sakes.

From your favorite two, Barhoumy and Michael

For ARI and the Class of 1996:

Our deepest fear is that we are inadequate. Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. It is our light, not our darkness, that frightens us. We ask ourselves, who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented and fabulous? Actually, who are you not to be? You are a child of God. Your playing small doesn't serve the world. There's nothing enlightened about shrinking so that other people won't feel insecure around you. We were born to manifest the glory of God within us. It's not just some of us; it's in everyone. And as we let our own light shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to do the same. As we are liberated from our own fear, our presence automatically liberates others.

Nelson Mandela, President, Republic of South Africa

JOSTENS

"'...For thousands of years I'd lived under the blissfully ignorant assumption that I had in fact created my universe, that I was immortal, that I was the master Artisan of my Life (I was quite a naive god, it seems); I was bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, bleary and blinking before the blinding opportunity of my unlimited choice and power, but I learned too quickly, however, the folly of such egotism: despite all my efforts to the contrary, and millions of years before the birth of Nietzsche, the god Ba'al died.

"But what a happy life it had been! And I was not happy for the perfection of the universe—even I was aware that the world could be a trying, battering place—I was joyful simply for the act of creating. Even the accidental creations gave me joy! Who would have created a pig, a hippopotamus on purpose? What of war, and disease and famine? What of broken hearts, broken dreams, and promises? I was trying to make a swan when I built the pig, but this world would be a sadder place, wouldn't it, without the joyful oink of my mistakes?

"It occurs to me at this moment—for the first time ever with such clarity!—and bear with me if I am abusing your philosophic sensibilities, that perhaps only the rarest, the fundamental destination will ever bring happiness (should we ever truly get there), and that the actual gift of living springs from the stride and from the step, from the music of one voice twined with another, and that which is held and raised, that which is shaped by the hand, cherished in the hand, all that we hold and all that we create is all that we can truly call Good.

"Well, not bad for an amateur. I am not completely sold, but I think my time here is up, nevertheless. I am overdue. I must be going, there is a baby crying somewhere, and that baby may very well be me. So, it happens again: Time tramples on, carries us in its step. Life spills from the precipice. And it will be a humble enough birth. It will be a messy beginning. It will be, and is, a pregnant hope in labor, darkness bursting forth light. And at this point in my eternal life, I have good cause to be one so full of hope, don't you think? For without hope, how else could one ever dream of re-building the universe again?'"

Dan O'Brien

CLASS HYMN

There is a nook among the alders
Still sleeping to the catbird's "Hush";
Below, a long stonebridge is bending

A dreamer hither often wanders
And gathers many a snow-white stone;
He weighs them, poised upon his fingers,
Divining each one's silvery tone.

He drops them! When the stream makes music,
Fair visions with its vault-voice swell:
And so, for us, the future rises,
As thought-stones stir our heart's "Farewell!"

-Robert Frost
